

References

- Allen, Isobel, Doctors and their Careers, 1988a, Policy Studies Institute.
- Allen, Isobel, Any Room at the Top?, 1988b, Policy Studies Institute.
- Atkinson, A.B. (1987), Social Security Harmonisation in Europe: Evidence From Britain and France, Welfare State Programme Research Note No. 5.
- Blanchflower, D. and B. Corry (1987), Part-time employment in Great Britain: an analysis using establishment data, Research Paper No. 57, London, Department of Employment.
- Blanchflower, D. and P. Elias (1988), 'Male Part-time Employment', MSC Labour Market Quarterly Report, Sheffield, MSC.
- Bourguignon, F. and P.A. Chiappori (1987a), The French Tax Benefit System and a Comparison with the British System, Chateau de Grande Romaine Conference.
- Bourguignon, F. (1986), 'Female Participation and Taxation in France' in R. Blundell and I. Walker (eds), Unemployment, Search and Labour Supply, Cambridge University Press.
- Cohen, Bronwen (1988), Caring for Children; Services and Policies for Childcare and Equal Opportunities in the United Kingdom, Commission of the European Communities.
- Crompton, Rosemary (with Kay Sanderson) (1986), 'Credentials and Careers: Some Implications of the Increase in Professional Qualifications amongst Women', Sociology, Vol. 20.

- Dale, A. and J. Glover (1987), A Comparative Analysis of Women's Employment in the UK, France and the USA, report submitted to the Department of Employment, March 1987.
- Dex, S., P. Walters, and D. Alden (1988), French and British Women's Employment Comparisons, report submitted to Department of Employment, January 1988.
- Dex, S. and P. Walters (1989), Journal of Industrial Relations, forthcoming.
- Elias, P. (1982), 'Part-time Workers: Evidence from the National Training Survey' in Select Committee on the European Communities Voluntary Part-time Work, 4053/82 COM(81) 775 Final, London, HMSO.
- Elias, P. (1988a), 'Family Formation, Occupational Mobility and Part-time Work', Chapter 4 of A. Hunt (ed), Women and Paid Work: Issues of Equality, London, Macmillan.
- Elias, P. (1988b), A Study of Trends in Part-time Employment, 1971-86, DE Programme 1987/8 Project Report, University of Warwick, Institute for Employment Research (mimeo).
- Elias, P. (1988c), Skill Acquisition and De-skilling: Objective versus Subjective Appraisal, University of Warwick, Institute for Employment Research (mimeo).
- Elias, P. and B. Main (1982), Women's Working Lives: Evidence from the National Training Survey, Coventry, University of Warwick, Institute for Employment Research.
- Ermisch, J.F. and R.E. Wright (1988), Differential Returns to Human Capital in Full-time and Part-time Employment: The Case of British Women, Discussion Paper in Economics 88/14, Birkbeck College, University of London.
- Fogarty, M., A.J. Allen, Isobel Allen, Patricia Walters (1971), Women in Top Jobs, Political and Economic Planning, Allen and Unwin.
- Fogarty, M., Isobel Allen, Patricia Walters (1981), Women in Top Jobs 1968-1979, Policy Studies Institute, Heinemann.
- Garnsey, E. (1984), The Provision and Quality of Part-time Work, The Case of Great Britain and France, European Economic Community Report.

- Huws, Ursula, 'New Technology Homeworkers', Employment Gazette, Vol. 92, No. 1, January 1984.
- Institute for Employment Research (IER) (1988a), Review of the Economy and Employment, Occupational Update 1988, University of Warwick.
- Institute for Employment Research (IER) (1988b), Review of the Economy and Employment, Occupational Studies, Vol. 2, University of Warwick.
- Joshi, H. and M. Newell (1985), Parenthood and Pay Differentials. Evidence from the MRC National Survey of the 1946 Birth Cohort, Centre for Population Studies, University of London.
- Joshi, Heather and M-L Newell (1987), Family Responsibilities and Pay Differentials: Evidence from Men and Women born in 1946, CEPR Discussion Paper No. 157.
- Main, B.G.M. (1988a), 'The Lifetime Attachment of Women to the Labour Market', Chapter 2 of A. Hunt, Women and Paid Work: Issues of Equality, London, Macmillan.
- Main, B.G.M. (1988b), 'Hourly Earnings of Female Part-time versus Full-time Employees', The Manchester School, 56, 4, 331-44.
- Martin, J. and C. Roberts (1984), Women and Employment. A Lifetime Perspective, London, HMSO, 1984.
- Metcalf, Hilary and Patricia Leighton (1989), The Under-utilisation of Women in the Labour Market, IMS Report No. 172.
- NEDO (1988), Young People and the Labour Market: A Challenge for the 1990s, NEDO Books.
- NEDO (1986), 'IT Futures Surveyed', Planning, No. 676.
- Purcell, K. (1988), Industrial Restructuring, Gender and Patterns of Employment in Coventry, University of Warwick, Institute for Employment Research (mimeo).
- Walsh, T. (1988), Segmentation and Flexibility: Part-time and temporary work in the retail and hotel trades, Paper presented to a conference on Restructuring Work and Employment, University of Warwick, July.